Frances Malino is the Sophia Moses Robison Professor of Jewish Studies and History at Wellesley College and chair of the Jewish Studies Program. She is one of the world's leading scholars on French Jewry, and a frequent participant in panels and symposia both here and abroad. Malino has authored two books, The Sephardic Jews of Bordeaux: Assimilation and Emancipation in Revolutionary and Napoleonic France, and A Jew in the French Revolution: The Life of Zalkind Hourwitz. She is also co-editor of Essays in Modern Jewish History: A Tribute to Ben Halpern, The Jews in Modern France and From East and West: Jews in a Changing Europe 1750-1870 (republished as Profiles in Diversity: Jews in a Changing Europe). Her research on Jewish society in 18th century France has been widely published in scholarly journals, textbooks, and reference works on Jewish History. She is presently writing a book titled Teaching Freedom: Jewish Sisters in Muslim Lands.
