

My name is Brad and my major is Middle Grades Social Studies Science.

By being in Teaching Fellows so far it has been a great experience. Not only have I been able to be more involved with the School of Education at UNCG but I have been more involved with the Community as well.

Teaching Fellows has offered many great opportunities for me to decide what I wanted to teach or where do I want to teach. There are so many great opportunities.

We have to get out and experience what is going on around the community and to become a better part of UNCG's campus.
